

Atomic Bomb Test Delayed Six Weeks By Pres. Truman

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, March 23 (AP) — President Truman called the Pacific atom bomb test off for six weeks and thereby set the capital buzzing today over the reasons behind his surprise decision.

Mr. Truman said merely he was ordering the postponement because a "heavy legislative" calendar will prevent congressmen from witnessing the experiments which were scheduled to start in the Bikini Atoll on May 15.

Announcement of the postponement virtually on the eve of the UNO sessions in New York aroused much conjecture, however, particularly since yesterday produced Generalissimo Stalin's public avowal of confidence in UNO's future world role and his statement he believed no nation was seeking war.

Task Force on Move
Perplexing features in the picture were that the A-bomb test task force already had been put in motion and that the UNO meeting, as well as continued congressional sessions, both have been fairly definite for some time. And Capitol Hill has not noted any widespread clamor from legislators to witness the experiment.

Initial reaction was that the President's unexpected decision was related in some degree to the uneasy recent state of international affairs, the congressional controversy over the military's role in future atomic development, and also the administration's difficulties in mustering sufficient votes in the House and Senate for its program.

Congress, Brass Surprised
Mr. Truman's order took congressmen and armed force commanders by surprise.

The joint Army-Navy task force had proceeded with plans to start the tests off with the first bomb drop on May 15 — until the White House told Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy to wait until July 1. Task force personnel already were assembling at Bikini and ships stood by at Pearl Harbor, making ready to proceed to the target area. A force of about 35,000 army and navy personnel and civilian scientists already is mustered for the tests.

News Collected At Random

The consensus of opinion of sixteen persons interviewed on the Daylight Saving question, that is expected to be brought before the borough council at its April meeting, favors turning the clocks ahead one hour during the April-through-September months.

Eleven of those interviewed favor Daylight Saving time. Two oppose any change from Standard time and two said they weren't interested or concerned one way or another.

A Victory Gardener comes forth with the following letter: "As a Victory Gardener I would say we definitely need Daylight Saving time."

"If one works in a store or factory until 5 or 5:30 o'clock each evening, then eats supper and travels to a victory garden the time remaining doesn't allow for very much work and darkness forces one to cease work before sufficient work is done to justify the effort and expenses in getting there."

"There certainly isn't any percentage in this plan. Not everyone has a half-day off a week either; this time can be used to an advantage in gardening if desired."

"If citizens are willing to make ground available and have it plowed to help victory gardeners it seems only logical that an hour's change in time would be a direct way of saying thank you to those individuals for making it possible for a greater number of citizens to take advantage of this splendid offer."

If you are in favor of or opposed to Daylight Saving time let us know. Your opinion will help guide members of town council when they take this matter up at the April meeting.

CONGRESSMAN IS SPEAKER AT FFA ANNUAL DINNER

The discussion whether or not the United States should "give the atomic bomb" to other countries is in a sense a purely academic problem, Congressman Chester Gross told 150 members of the Apple City Chapter of the FFA and their parents Friday evening at the seventh annual Future Farmers of America banquet at Biglerville.

"Whether we attempt to keep the atomic bomb a secret or not does not matter. Other nations will soon know how to construct it for science is not something that is exported. The Russians have some of the most brilliant scientists in the world, and there are great scientists in all nations. Science is international," Gross said.

"We point to the great cost of the atom bomb, two billion dollars—but we forget that cost was mostly for the plants, finding the materials and buying them. Now the scientists tell me, the bombs are being produced at a cost of about one million dollars apiece."

Too Dreadful To Use

"The atom bomb that fell at Hiroshima exploded at 1,800 feet in the air. If it had been dropped over York instead it would have killed every person in York and killed or injured every person in York county. The scientists told me yesterday when I went to see them to ask questions about the bomb so I could report to you that to be safe from the bomb a person would have to be at least 1,000 feet underground. As they explained it the distance one would have to be under the earth to avoid the effects of the bomb depends on the structure of the earth at the particular spot but on an average 1,000 feet would be sufficient."

"My mail tells me that there are hundreds of persons who are deathly afraid of the atom bomb. Well, one thing the atom bomb does—it makes certain that we must in the future think in other terms than our own selfishness."

"But personally, I do not fear the atom bomb so much. As I recall after the last war we were deathly afraid of gas. But gas proved so frightful that although there were great quantities of gas lying around all over the place during the recent World War no nation dared to use it. That I hope is what will happen to the atom bomb—no nation will dare to use it."

Chaplain Hunt Tells Of Divine Worship Services Aboard Uncle Sam's Ships

Somewhere Between Pearl Harbor and the West Coast. Aboard the USS Saldor, CVE 117, Chaplain Robert M. Hunt, Lt. (j.g.) USNR, serves as spiritual director for the officers and crew.

As pastor-on-leave from the Gettysburg Presbyterian church, Chaplain Hunt has served more than fifteen months in the Navy, nearly six months of which were spent overseas.

Now he is on his way home with his ship scheduled to reach the States by the end of this month. The local pastor expects to be relieved of his ship duties then with the possibility of discharge from the Navy by early summer.

To give Times' readers a word-picture of worship service aboard ship The Gettysburg Times asked Chaplain Hunt to write an article on how the men in service have divine service brought to them.

"Big For Service"

His article follows in full: "When you enter the church of your choice on Sunday morning and are seated you find everything in readiness for the worship hour. You may enter during the week on any day and find a quiet place for worship. You have only to enter the church to find the furnishings for worship; the pews, the pulpit,

Eighty per cent of those present voted against parking meters in Littlestown. The board of directors was instructed to convey the sentiment of the Chamber of Commerce to the borough council with the suggestion that restricted parking be used instead of meters. The proposed parking meters would be installed from the square to the railroad on South Queen street; to Shoemaker's garage on North Queen street; to the fire engine house on East King street; and to the first alley on West King street, according to information given the Caamber by Burgess Charles R. Mehning.

CITES SCANDAL IN "TRAFFIC" COURTS OF U.S.

"High-speed traffic, with its crowded streets and millions of drivers, has taken the law by surprise. Traffic courts have grown up like guttersnipes, developing techniques of expediency. They represent the weakest, as well as the most out-of-date link in our administration of justice."

This is the declaration of Myron Stearns, who resides along the Fairfield road, and who is connected with the Automotive Safety Foundation, whose studies he has utilized in writing the above in an article in the current issue of Harper's Magazine. It is titled "The Scandal of our Traffic Courts."

Many Are Killed

Mr. Stearns declares that 4,500,000 Americans are handed tickets to traffic courts each year and that thirty to forty thousand are killed in accidents every twelve months.

"The preventive values of good highway administration, sound traffic regulation, and even the efforts of well-trained traffic policemen and state troopers, can all be nullified by indifference or incompetence in the courts that back them up, to which good and bad drivers alike must go to plead their case and receive sentence," Stearns declares.

The local author cites numerous instances where injustice is meted out in various courts. . . . one case in which alleged offenders are given numbers for their appearance before the justice.

Presiding over a municipal court in an up-state New York city is an exhibitionist who, when he feels the urge to put on his act, questions the alleged traffic-law violator (Please Turn to Page 2)

TWO KILLED IN BLAZE, BLASTS

Newark, O., March 23 (AP)—The ruins of a $1,000,000 unit of the Pure Oil company refinery at near-by Heath, O., was the charred result today of a spectacular fire and four explosions that killed at least two men.

The victims were reported by General Foreman H. J. Hook to be war veteran Nathaniel John Skarin, Jr., 23, of Newark, O., and Lemont, Ill., and Benjamin Gerber, of Jackson township.

The first explosion last night occurred in the high-pressure reducing unit used for converting oil to gasoline. Fire and debris shot high into the air and as the flames spread to a smaller reducing unit, three more explosions occurred.

No cause for the fire has been determined. Firemen extinguished the blaze after a three-hour battle as highway patrolmen held back a crowd of spectators.

One worker said only a favorable wind kept the fire from spreading throughout the plant's 30 acres of highly inflammable stored gas. Company officials said there might be a third body in the smoldering ruins. There was no official estimate of damage. The destroyed unit cost $1,000,000 to build seven years ago, when it was constructed as a replacement for a unit which had burned.

RECEIVES DISCHARGE

M. Sgt. William S. Elgin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, received his army discharge Wednesday at Camp Meade after three years of service. He served first in the recruiting office in Harrisburg and then with the POW section at Camp Meade for the last two years.

PRESS SEARCH FOR BANDIT WHO ROBBED DRIVER

The local sub-station of the state police continued today their search for the armed robber who Friday morning took $100 from Raymond Raines, Baltimore truck driver, at the point of a gun and then disappeared apparently into a woods near Hampton.

Police said that Raines was unable to give a very clear description of the man dressed in army uniform who robbed the driver after accepting a ride from him.

Raines told police that near the intersection of the East Berlin road with the Hanover-Carlisle highway a car had pulled alongside the cab and a man who appeared to be a soldier yelled to Raines asking if he would give him a ride north. Raines stopped the truck and the car stopped, letting the youth make the change from the car to the truck. According to Raines the car then turned into the East Berlin road and apparently continued on its way along that road.

Obedient Instructions

The Baltimore man, who was hauling a load of A and P stores goods in a Southern Transport corporation truck, said he drove on some distance until, near Hampton, the "soldier" pulled out a gun and told him to stop. When stopped the robber made Raines hand over the $100, which he had in his wallet and then, according to Raines, informed him "Now beat it and don't look back or I'll let you have it."

Raines said he started up the truck and drove away immediately, not looking back. Raines said however he believed that the "soldier" went into a woods which was along the highway at the point where they stopped.

RECORDING OF DEEDS HERE AT NEW HIGH MARK

The business of recording deeds is setting new records in Adams county in the office of Register and Recorder Winfield G. Horner. MAIMED FRANCE LOOKS TO WEST FOR MORE HELP

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

Paris, March 23—France's appeal for assistance in inaugurating her five year economic plan is symptomatic of the shocking distress which blankets most of Europe and special envoy Leon Blum quite likely is only breaking trail for a long line of applicants from other nations.

Of course the big problem of the moment in most countries of the old world is to find food, on the basis that if you are starving it doesn't matter a tinker's dam how much money you have in your pocket unless it will buy something to eat. However, I take it that in the long run a full cupboard is dependent on a full purse, which means that there can be no permanent cure for hunger unless the economic situation is sound.

Look To West

There was hunger in Europe after the first world conflict, and there was economic disturbance, but it was a happy interlude as compared with what is happening now. As this column has remarked before, you've got to be here in Europe and see these things in order to get a full realization of the extent of the catastrophe.

The total war which Hitler inaugurated truly belonged to the atomic age. It not only stopped the wheels of progress but it destroyed the means of recovery. Those means now must come largely from the Western Hemisphere.

That's why we find France knocking at our door. She's one of the hard hit countries. Her present misfortune is due to various reasons, including political confusion and spiritual hurt, but we find enough cause for economic distress in the despoliation of this great country by the Hitlerites.

Stole Men, Machines

Here, as in most other occupied territories, the Nazis not only sent thousands of citizens to servitude in Germany but plundered the country of equipment essential to keep the economic wheels turning. For instance, much of the rolling stock of the railroads was run off for use in Germany and other invaded countries. Factories were stripped of machinery, and machine tools were stolen wholesale.

The question naturally arises why these stolen railway cars and the industrial machinery aren't returned to France, Holland and the other despoiled countries. Well, a little of the plunder is finding its way back, but I remind you again that this has been a total war. Much of the tremendous amount of wealth which Hitler collected in Germany was destroyed in the Allied hurricane that swept the Reich.

Then, too, even where machinery and various kinds of supplies are found intact, it frequently is difficult to determine ownership.

So the stricken countries of Europe must turn to the United States for the wherewithal to rehabilitate themselves, since there's no other nation which has the necessary resources.

before him until he gets the answer to which he can—reasonably or unreasonably—take exception," writes Mr. Stearns.

Synthetic Rage

"Then he flies into a synthetic rage, snatches off his spectacles, hurls them under the spectators' seats in front of the bench and imposes a heavy fine. After the victim has gone his way a courtroom attendant retrieves the spectacles—which are made of unbreakable glass.

"An Alabama playful judge amuses himself by letting Negro offenders roll dice to see how many dollars they will be fined.

"Most country justices operate on the fee system, which in nine cases out of ten pays the judge less than his time is worth. But in cases (and there are many) where it is abused, it degrades the law for a fat profit. One eastern justice has estimated his earnings at $2,800 per month. Another has been known to take in $4,553 from a single traffic light in a little more than a year.

Some Hardly Literate

"In rural districts conditions are different, but from the standpoint of encouraging respect for law, often still worse. Through the development of the automobile, the country justice has become an important trial judge without prescribed qualifications (except residence) and with little public interest in his election. In 37 states at least some traffic cases, and in the majority of states most traffic cases, are tried by these country justices. Yet almost anyone regardless of ability, fitness or availability, can be elected a justice. Many are hardly literate."

SEE HARD FIGHT AT UAW MEET

Atlantic City, March 23 (AP)—The General Motors strike appears likely to become a bitterly fought issue at the CIO United Auto Workers' convention opening here today.

About 2,000 UAW-CIO delegates converged on the convention hall in an air of tenseness for their first session (1 p. m. EST).

Many of them were convinced that a debate on the strategy of the four month General Motors strike is inevitable within the next few days. Here's why:

(1) The delegates expect a name calling, rip-roaring struggle for the presidency of the union—the first major presidential contest in the union's 10 year history.

(2) And one of the expected candidates happens to be the man who led the strike, Walter Reuther.

Vice president Reuther is regarded as almost certain to run against President R. J. Thomas. Reuther hasn't announced his candidacy but his followers expect him to throw his hat in the ring after a meeting of the Reuther faction tonight.

Some Reuther opponents already have begun an attack on the strategy of the strike.

No Objections By VA To Legion Probe

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—Regional offices of the Veterans administration have no objections to a "sweeping investigation" of the type demanded by the Pennsylvania department of the American Legion, Robert W. Wilson, deputy regional director of VA says.

James P. Murray, commander of the Legion's Pennsylvania department had announced he will appoint a Legion committee to make an "investigation of operations of the Veterans administration in Pennsylvania."

Two other veterans organizations—the American Veterans of World War II and the American Veterans committee—disagreed with the Legion and pledged support to VA. Wilson said his office, which covers Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, was making "every effort" and would soon "produce very material results."

Truman's Speech Tonight Awaited

Washington, March 23 (AP)—President Truman was billed today for a hard-hitting speech to keynote his party's Jackson Day dinners throughout the nation.

The White House disclosed it would be the chief executive's first avowed political address since becoming President, and an aide said it would be front page talk, both hard hitting and "progressive."

Secretary Wallace, who has suggested reading out of the party those legislators who oppose the administration on major issues, will speak from the same platform.

Mr. Truman's 2,000-word speech will be delivered at the main $100 (EST) following the commerce secretary's 12-minute address. A record-breaking audience—close to 2,000—is expected.

APRIL'S DRAFT QUOTA HIGHER

Harrisburg, March 23 (AP)—April's Selective Service quota, to be filled principally by limited service recruits, will skyrocket to approximately 9,300 men, compared to average monthly quotas of 3,500 since last September.

Lt. Col. Raymond E. Clouse of the state headquarters staff said the April quota was boosted because of national headquarters' decision to take limited service men to make up for a national deficit in filling calls.

"Pennsylvania has maintained its percentage fairly well," said Clouse, "but nationally we have gotten behind the 50,000 promised every month."

Limited service men will be taken from the 18-through-25 group and will include some married men but no fathers.

They were listed as those previously classified 4-F because of inability to meet previous standards for military service. All of them are now being reclassified as 1-AB except those eligible for occupational or other deferments, Clouse added.

GOP Slate Opens Campaign In West

Pittsburgh, March 23 (AP)—A crowd of 2,000 at the opening meeting of the Republican state organization's primary campaign heard Attorney General James H. Duff, candidate for governor, pledge he would carry to "complete fulfillment" the program begun under Governor Martin.

For western Pennsylvania, he promised increased state attention to traffic fatalities, stream purification and recreation.

Duff said difficulties of contours in this region apparently had "dissuaded the state authorities from doing much" about traffic problems until the present administration set itself to work out a solution.

One-Pound Baby Has Even Chance

Hollywood, March 23 (AP)—A one-pound baby, delivered three months prematurely by Caesarean section, was given an even chance to survive today.

Attendants at Presbyterian hospital, describing the infant's condition as "fair," said her "color is good and she cries." She is the tiniest, said Superintendent Paul C. Elliott, to be born at the hospital and live.

The birth, at 5:55 p. m. Thursday, was disclosed last night. The baby is the daughter of Mrs. Linda Ververs.

Newly Created Cardinal Passes

Hamburg, March 23 (AP)—British occupation authorities announced today that Clemens August Cardinal Count von Galen died at his home in Muenster yesterday afternoon.

The cardinal, who recently returned to Germany from Vatican City where he was elevated to the purple, was 68 years old.

The prelate, bishop of Muenster, underwent an operation for peritonitis on March 19.

He was the second of the new cardinals to die since the recent consistories at the Vatican. John Cardinal Glennon of St. Louis, who died in Dublin, Eire, March 9, was the first.

Chicago, (AP)—The long queues in front of stores selling nylons will no longer have city policemen keeping them in line. RUSSIANS BACK STALIN'S FAITH IN WORLD PEACE

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 23 (AP)—Russia's man in the street voiced his approval today of Generalissimo Stalin's expression of confidence in the United Nations and his assurance that neither nations nor their armies want war.

"Stalin answered thoughts that everyone has been thinking—thoughts they have been thinking but failing to say," said a chauffeur.

"That's the kind of answer everyone has been hoping someone would make," said a policeman. "People all over the world have been afraid of one another. They do not want war and I believe they have now got reason to feel better."

Reds Want Peace

"Russians only want peace," said a cook. "They are not interested in war. War brings only disaster and unhappiness to Russia as well as to the rest of the world."

"Why should people of the world go out and fight," said the cashier in a store. "The average workers all over the world don't want any war and I believe Comrade Stalin has spoken for them when he says nations and their armies don't want war."

"I'm a soldier, but God knows I don't want war any more than an American or Chinese soldier wants it," said a Red Army captain.

"Comrade Stalin has spoken with his great wisdom once more," Pravda, organ of the Communist party, gave Stalin's answers to this correspondent's questions first place in the news of its front page, headed off its news index with the story and displayed both at the top of the page under bold black headlines.

SOCIALISTS IN VOTE DILEMMA

Harrisburg, March 23 (AP)—The Socialist party in Pennsylvania faced the dilemma today of how its state-wide candidates could be listed on the November election ballot—as Socialists.

As it stands now, they will have to run under another name.

The state elections bureau already has accepted the nomination papers of the Socialist Labor Organization, another group, and election laws forbid use of either "Socialist" or "Labor" in the appellation of any other party group filing before the April deadline for the November general election.

The Socialists nominated a complete ticket for state-wide offices at a convention in Reading recently, but up until today their petitions have not been offered at the elections bureau.

An election bureau official recalled that in 1944 "the Socialists were in first and the Socialist-Labor nomination papers were rejected because they were too late. This year, the Socialist-Labor party was first."

The Socialists will not be prevented from nominating candidates for Congress, the state Senate or state House, the official said, because the Socialist-Labor group has candidates only for four state-wide offices.

Tugboat Strikers May Settle Soon

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—Hope for settlement of a strike of tugboat workers increased today as representatives of union and management met at offices of the U.S. Conciliation service.

A union spokesman who declined to be identified said after a meeting last night that he "was hopeful for an early and amicable conclusion of negotiations."

The spokesman said 59 of 60 points disputed had been agreed upon by the union representatives and officials of the seven tugboat companies affected, including pay increase and an overall contract retroactive to Jan. 1. The disputed point was a union demand for extra pay for employees working a "double crew" (16 consecutive hours).

Miners At Force Are Offered Houses

Force, Pa., March 23 (AP)—Miners of Force, Byrondale and Hollywood, villages in Bennetts Valley, today are considering a proposal from the New Shawmut Mining Co. to sell them the "company houses" in which they live.

This was one of the results of a 20-week strike, started last July, in which miners protested "insanitary conditions" under which they lived. The strike ended after a federal court order removed company receivers and appointed new ones.

A company spokesman said prices of the dwellings had been set at a nominal figure, with the firm to throw in enough additional acreage for community buildings and recreation grounds, under conditions that would prevent speculators from profiting on the deals. The company offered also to furnish engineering service for community development.

Capt. Reid Longanecker is becoming Gettysburg's leading ocean traveler. The Wac officer, daughter of A. R. Quite a lot of the male residents of the town are finding the storm windows and doors just as hard to take down as they were to put up. . . .

Some folks have been complaining to Times reporters about the conduct of youths and children at the theater who are sure their noises and talk are an improvement on the dialogue of the pictures. WILL EXECUTE 2 AT ROCKVIEW

Belleville, Pa., March 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania's electric chair was readied today for the first double execution in nearly five years as the state prepared to carry out a death sentence imposed on two WilliamSPORT men convicted of slaying an elderly man who befriended them. Arrangements were made to bring the doomed men—Robert W. Pepperman, 29, and John D. West, 27—to the death cell at Rockview prison here from Erie today.

Their victim, Joseph B. Campbell, 73-year-old retired industrialist, was beaten to death with a slipper in his home last Aug. 5. The convicted slayers were arrested a short time later in Williamsport, their home town, and sentenced Sept. 1 to die in the electric chair after pleading guilty before Judge J. Orin Waite of Erie county.

Governor Martin set the execution date after the State Supreme court turned down their appeal and the state Board of Pardons rejected a plea for commutation of their sentence to life imprisonment. They contended they intended only to obtain Campbell's car keys.

The victim had lived alone in a secluded home four miles from Erie. His socially prominent daughter, Mrs. Robert Spencer Van Cleave, found his body.

freedom for individuals and reduction of the national debt, said all must "get over the idea that the government must support you. The farmer that goes to a government agency with his problem is going to find himself having worse problems than before. Stand on your own two feet and solve your own problems, otherwise you are helping increase the cost of the government and are increasing the power of the bureaucrats."

Farming in the future will be based on mass production, the representative added. "You FFA men are going to be farmers in a world reborn. Recently I learned of a Chicago farm where 800 acres of clover seed were planted by plane in six hours. That is the type of farming of the future. You will have new tools, new methods.

Lighter Speaks

"But I urge you not to farm for prices. Farm so that you are self-sustaining no matter what the prices might be. Whether wheat is high or low, grow enough for your own uses. "The best crop on the farm is children. Grow large families, love the land and farming and while you will never grow rich you will ead a happy, satisfying, good life."

Richard C. Lighter, county agricultural education advisor urged the formation of partnerships on the farm between the fathers and sons, pointing out that such partnerships give the youths an incentive to learn farming.

Arthur Gordon, of the Biglerville high school faculty, was toastmaster. C. L. Yost led the group in singing and the Rev. H. W. Sternat pronounced the invocation. Chapter President Maurice Black and other officers conducted the opening ceremony, after which Black gave the address of welcome.

Pickets Observing New Court Order

Pittsburgh, March 23 (AP)—Pickets paced 10 feet apart in front of the Westinghouse Electric corporation's East Pittsburgh plant today in accordance with a court order while a special detail of state police stood ready at Greensburg, 30 miles away, in event of trouble.

Only 10 CIO United Electrical Workers' pickets were in the picket line, at the stipulation of the court, and there were few onlookers in contrast to a crowd of 2,000 that milled about the entrance earlier in the week, preventing supervisory employees from entering.

At a rally in front of City Hall, 4,000 members of the striking union were told by Robert Logsdon, international union representative and chairman of the union's St. Louis council, to remember the governor's action on election day. Union speakers were bitter also over modification of a court injunction banning mass picketing.

Joan Barry Again; Is Being Sued Now

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—Joan Barry, night club entertainer and former movie protegee of Charlie Chaplin, has been sued for $50,000 in a breach of contract action filed in Common Pleas Court.

The suit, filed by Don D'Carlo, Pittsburgh theatrical booking agent, charges Miss Barry signed a contract with him and obtained engagements through his agency. D'Carlo claims half Miss Barry's earnings since last November 17th, and for the next three years, the period he said was covered in the contract.

No date has been set for a hearing. Miss Barry, now appearing at a Philadelphia night club, declined comment.

Miss Barry was listed as residing with her daughter, Carol Ann, at a downtown hotel. D'Carlo estimated in the suit she was earning $1,000 a week at a downtown night club, and is receiving an additional $75 a week from Chaplin under a court order for support of her daughter.

Testify Against Marine Lieutenant

Tientsin, March 21 (delayed) (AP)—The defense concluded its case today in the court martial of Marine First Lieutenant Guy Agati, of West Wyoming, Pa., charged with mistreating American prisoners on Okinawa.

Only three witnesses were called by Agati's counsel. One of them, Sgt. Alexander Tarr, Yonkers, N. Y., testified that brig policies established by Agati were "pretty severe so we would have no repeaters."

Prisoners were "exercised" until they were really tired—so tired, "they shook," Tarr said.

TEN YEARS AGO

Floods Cause 136 Deaths; 95 in State: (Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)—New river ravages in New England and the Ohio valley, new problems born of destitution, panic and drastic death and damage tolls, confronted water-wearied eastern America today (March 20)—it's third day of unprecedented floods.

Revised figures of the known dead from the entire area totaled 136. The damage estimates, unofficial, showed close to $300,000,000. More than 200,000 were homeless.

President Roosevelt again delayed his southern vacation departure to stay in command of the federal rescue-relief mobilization. The New Deal considered spending close to $400,000,000 for flood sufferers and to guard against repetition of this week's disasters.

$1,250 Sought by Red Cross: Under the personal supervision of Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, president of the Adams county chapter of the American Red Cross, the local branch of the national organization in charge of the relief of flood victims, has launched a well-organized campaign for $1,250 in cash, this county's quota share of the $3,000,000 flood relief fund, and for food and clothing to be rushed to the flooded areas.

The Gettysburg fire company and the American Legion are performing valuable services by collecting food and clothing by truck in all parts of the community.

Wed in Hagerstown: Miss Alda M. Cline, of Peace Glen, and Roy C. Gettler, of Biglerville, were united in marriage Saturday morning in the parsonage of Trinity Lutheran church, Hagerstown, by the Rev. Scott Wagner, pastor.

Mrs. Gettler is employed in the office of the Rice, Trew and Rice company, Biglerville, and Mr. Gettler is employed by Spangler's bakery, Biglerville. The couple will reside in Biglerville.

Wed in Elkton: James G. Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Swope, of Fairfield, and Josephine Sheaffer, of Williamsport, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Sheaffer, of Newport, were united in marriage Wednesday, March 11, in Elkton, Maryland. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the first Methodist church by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Morgan.

Miss Helen M. Rebert, Weds in Frederick: Miss Helen M. Rebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Rebert, of Gettysburg, and Godfrey Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gibbs, of Carlisle, were married Monday by the Rev. Amos J. Traver at the Evangelical Lutheran parsonage, Frederick.

Electric Shop Opens: The New Electric Shop opened on Saturday at 28 Chambersburg street to sell electrical appliances. The owners are J. C. Peters and W. L. Dentler, who conducted a similar business in Biglerville for the last year.

47 Pupils in Final Spelling Contest: Harry Foth, Menallen township, won the county spelling title in the final contest Saturday afternoon. He received $4.

Second prize goes to Kathryn Himes, Latimore township. She receives $3.50.

Third, fourth and fifth prizes will be divided between four students. The prizes total $7.50. The students are Richard Gilbert, Straban township; Bruce Raffensperger, Arendtsville grammar school; Theodore Harner, Cumberland township, and Robert Kane, Arendtsville grammar school.

Red Cross Tops Quota in Drive for Flood Funds: At 2 o'clock this afternoon (Monday) Adams county Red Cross flood relief funds on deposit in a Gettysburg bank totaled $2,527.22, more than double the quota set for Adams county. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars ordered a check for $2,500 be sent to national Red Cross headquarters, at Washington, D. C., for use in the relief of flood victims.

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, two trucks from CCC camp No. 2 left Gettysburg for Mount Union. Captain O. H. Coble, commander at the camp, and Emory Dougherty, foreman were in charge of the trucks.

Upon arrival at their destination the food was taken to the Methodist church where hundreds of hungry people were being fed without regards to race or creed. The clothing that formed a part of the cargo of the trucks was taken to Red Cross headquarters there.

At the fire engine house this afternoon preparations were being made to dispatch trucks to Renovo and Lock Haven where the need for food and clothing is reported to be severe.

Sunday the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion sent a carload of foodstuffs and clothing to Everett where other Gettysburg donations had been taken early Saturday. The car was driven by Roy Alexander. The Legion plans to send a truck load or more of goods to Harrisburg also.

Parking continues to be the wrong way to try to make ends meet.

Proper gas mileage and efficiency cannot be obtained from the engine of your car if the heat control valves and bushings of the manifold systems are sticky and rusted. Either the engine will always have a too hot mixture when the manifolds heat up, or there will be insufficient preheating of the mixture during the warming up period. It is well to lubricate such valves to prevent stickage, but should the trouble overtake your best intentions the trick is to get after the sticky valve immediately with a good penetrating oil. Something you can whip up yourself is a mixture of a little powdered graphite with alcohol.

Still Need For Frames

Two factors are believed by close observers of the motor scene to be playing a role in delaying the trend toward making the motor car frame integral with its body. One is the belief that convertible models will be more popular than ever before, this type of body requiring a separate frame. The other is the matter of the export business which the motor car industry will do from here on. Many foreign buyers will want the chassis alone which means that cars so built must have a separate frame.

If the starter pinion gear tries to engage the flywheel gear while the car is running the indications are that the anti-drift spring on the starter shaft is broken. . . . One of the newest accessories to rebor-ing equipment is a special vacuum cleaner that keeps sucking away the filings to keep the work clean at all times. . . . It has been decided to use natural rubber for the cups of hydraulic brakes, due to the fact that this isn't affected by the alcohol base fluid used in such braking systems. . . . A lot of rattle and thumps in your car are due to hanging so much weight in the form of bumpers way out there at the ends of the frame. . . . Use of lighter, stronger materials should solve this one. . . . Something new in tire chains is one with closer sharper cross links which dig into the surface for greatly increased traction on glare ice.

Mechanic Joe Speaking: "Some kinds of economy certainly do not pay, and if you doubt it come with me for a look at that brake job over in the corner. The owner just wanted to get a few more miles from the old lining. He thought he was being thrifty. He even compensated a bit by driving slower and trying not to use the brakes as much as usual. But look at those scored brake drums.

"If lining gets so thin that the rivets show, any postponement of relining is certain to result in trouble. It isn't that drums cannot be cut down to get rid of the score marks but mainly the facts that when you take stock from a drum it is thinner, and weaker. Any misuse of the brakes after that is likely to warm and start your worries all over again. And by the way, did you know that drums should have a dull finish, sort of satiny and not glazed? They can be sanded if there are no evidences of scores or other irregularities."

When the carburetor's acceleration pump goes bad the preferable remedy is to replace it, but assuming you are where a new one cannot be easily obtained try the plan of soaking the pump's leather cup in castor oil. This will cause the leather to swell. Still further improvement in the old pump's action by stretching very slightly the circular shaped coil spring which serves to expand the leather against the wall of the pump. Be careful in doing this stretching for the spring is easily distorted and spoiled.

If there is suspicion that the engine block is badly packed with rust and sediment it may be a waste of time to try to reverse flush. In such cases the block should be manually cleaned out by removing the head and the core, or, wels, plugs which are found at the side of the block. By inserting scraping tools this job can then be done properly. Since the old plugs have to be pried out they will be damaged and should be replaced with new ones. Incidentally, it is well to carry one or two plugs as spares. In several cases of overheating one of these plugs will usually blow out to relieve pressure.

Handy on a Trip

I make it a rule not to overtake other cars when passing through towns. You'll find that most of the folk who get nabbed for speeding in small towns merely emphasized their error by their act of swinging around other cars.

Those tire tracks at intersections are most helpful in deciding where turns are permitted.

mileage on a trip lies in steady driving. Your speed should not be fast, nor should it be draggy especially on upgrades. You'll find that your car has a very comfortable "rolling speed" where it gives best results.

I was much interested to read recently an unofficial report on the percentage of drivers who failed to drop the high beam of the headlights in city operation. The question immediately arose as to how observers could tell whether the lights were on the rear or the far focus, in view of the fact that on some cars only the right hand light drops its rays for passing and there are many cars with lamps so badly out of focus they glare terrifically even on the low beam.

Best proof of how difficult it is for an outside observer to tell what beam is facing him is the frequency with which oncoming drivers will switch on their high beam to get your attention when they fail to realize you have already dropped to the low beam.

difficult to decide without knowing all the facts involved. However, on good authority it now appears true that synthetic treads slide more easily than those of natural rubber (Please Turn to Page 5)

SAYS VARDAMAN LACKS BALANCE

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Hardin, St. Louis banker, said Friday he considered Commodore James K. Vardaman, Jr., "utterly lacking in the balanced judgment that any member of the Federal Reserve Board should possess."

Hardin, executive vice president of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, gave this opinion to a Senate banking subcommittee at hearings on the nomination of President Truman's naval aide to the banking board.

Hardin was one of three St. Louis bankers summoned by Senator Donnell (R., Mo.), an opponent of the appointment, to testify on Vardaman's qualifications. The others were James P. Hicock, president of the Manufacturers Bank and Trust company, and William Welch, vice president of the First National bank.

One banker previously opposed confirmation for President Truman's much-decorated naval aide, while five others assured senators that Vardaman is eminently qualified.

With this out of the way senators will resume inquiry into the business transactions of the shoe company with which Vardaman was once connected, and various purported affidavits of its employees and officers.

6 YANKS FACE PRISON COUNTS

London, March 23 (AP)—U. S. Army headquarters in London said Friday that charges of conspiracy "to inflict cruel, unusual and unauthorized punishment" on guardhouse prisoners had been brought against Col. James A. Killian, of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the Tenth Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield, and five other officers.

Maj. Richard D. Kearney, staff judge advocate for the London area, said that the charges, preferred "for investigation under the 70th Article of War," also included separate counts of misfeasance and malfeasance in office.

Killian and others of the six charged today appeared as witnesses earlier this year at the court martial of ten enlisted men and two officers accused of mistreating Lichfield prisoners.

Others charged were: Maj. Richard E. Lohmeyer, of Pittsburgh, former provost marshal at the depot.

Maj. Herbert W. Blum, former depot inspecting officer.

Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, former depot inspecting officer of the 316th Reinforcement Company, which supplied personnel for operation of the depot guardhouse.

First Lt. Granville Cabbage, of Oklahoma City, formerly a prison officer at the depot.

First Lt. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peckskill, N. Y., a former prison officer at the depot.

Russian's To Help Fight Grasshoppers

Moscow, March 23 (AP)—A Soviet expedition organized by the Ministry of Agriculture and the Russian Civil aircraft took off Friday to combat grasshoppers in 148,000 acres of northern Iran.

The newspaper Evening Moscow said in an interview with I. I. Sazonov, chief of a special section of the aircraft, that the Iranian government had requested Russia to fight the grasshoppers from the air. Sazonov was quoted as saying the work would be finished by June 1.

The grasshoppers were said to be destroying enormous plots of planted fields.

BY ELISABETH HOLDING

Chapter 21

She had come to this decision rapidly, but quite deliberately. "No one there would do me any real harm," she thought. "They can't afford to, because they're hoping to get Uncle Rufus's money through me. I've got to go back, and find out what's happened to Mr. Fennel."

She was perfectly sure that something had happened to Fennel, and that Miles was responsible for it; she was profoundly alarmed and troubled, yet in her heart there was still that unshakable confidence in Fennel.

Her chief motive was loyalty. Fennel had come entirely on her account; any misadventure that had befallen him was due to his wish to help her. And now she would help him.

"I can't very well go to the police," she thought. "I haven't any evidence that anything's happened. And Aunt Emma would know how to make things look all right. She called in that detective herself. . . . I wish I'd kept that other letter—the one with the money in it. It was forged, of course. Who did it? Miles? Is that what he's so worried about?"

"If anyone had ever cared for him," she thought, "had ever taken any trouble over him, he might have been a decent man."

And that, in a way, was her requiem for Miles. She had pitied him and had done what she could for him, and now she had finished with him.

"If you'll drive to the East Hazlewood Station," she told the chauffeur, "someone there can tell you how to reach a house called 'The Chalet.'"

"Paying for this taxi is going to make an awful hole in my ten dollars," she thought. "But Mrs. Frick's turned so amiable."

They were going up the hill now, along the woodland road. The sun was gone, the sky was drained of color; here among the trees there was a somber twilight. The Chalet was a house easy to get into, but not so easy to leave.

"I'll see to that!" she thought, and leaning forward, spoke to the driver.

"Please wait for me," she said. "And if I don't come out in half an hour, please go to the door and ask for me."

He turned round to look at her, and in the gathering dusk his swarthy face had, she thought, a strange, secret look.

"No!" she said to herself. "That's ridiculous. . . ." And aloud: "Please—don't go away without me," she said. "No matter what anyone says. . . . Even if someone comes out and pays you and says I'm not coming. I—I am coming. . . ."

She stopped, ashamed and half-frightened by the tremor in her voice, the unmistakable note of appeal. "You see," she said. "I've—left my bag there. . . ."

"Ah!" said a bland voice, and Mr. Purvis rose from his chair. "Miss—"

"Why don't you leave me go and ask for yer bag?" he asked.

The kindness in his voice nearly unnerved her.

"Thanks ever so much, but I've—got to go in."

"I'll wait," he said. "And if they won't leave you come out, will I tell some friends of your?"

"Yes!" she cried. "I'll give you an address—if you have a pencil."

He stopped the cab, half way up the hill and not yet in sight of the house, and on a bit of paper she wrote Mrs. Frick's address.

"If you'll please let her know. . . ."

Putting the paper in his pocket, he turned away again.

"Well. . . ." he said. "Maybe they got a right to keep your bag, but they got no right to keep you. That's again the law."

"Oh—" she began, and stopped. Evidently he thought this was an affair of unpaid board; better let him go on thinking that.

"I'll wait, aw' right," he added. "Don't you worry!"

But she did worry! As they turned the corner, and she saw the house again, so desolate, and bleak, such a fear swept over her that for a moment she was paralyzed.

There was nothing really to be afraid of; the cab would be waiting for her and the driver had Mrs. Frick's address. And even without that no one would want to hurt her, for only through her could they get Uncle Rufus's money.

"I'll tell Aunt Emma the whole thing," she thought. "How Miles acted and about Mr. Fennel's letter. I'll tell her that if she doesn't let me know at once what happened to Mr. Fennel, she needn't expect me to help her out with any money ever. I've got the upper hand. I must remember that."

Light was shining from the windows of the lounge. But all the other dark rooms. . . .

"I have the upper hand!" she said to herself. "Perhaps I'm the only person who can find out what happened to Mr. Fennel. Perhaps they've done something—horrible!"

It was very easy to believe that, when she stood again in the shadow of that house.

"Uncle Rufus!" she thought with a shock. "I promised not to leave him!"

She stopped outside the door, appalled. How was it possible that she had forgotten that? For a moment, despair seized her. Then she began to think sanely and lucidly.

"I'll stand by him. I won't desert him. But I will not—I cannot live in that house. I must see him and explain it. There must be some sort of hotel in the village. I'll stay there, and come to see him every day until he's well enough to leave. I'll beg him to insist upon having a nurse for the nights. I'll do it all quite openly."

She glanced back at the cab that stood square and solid in the driveway, its lights shining out clearly. Then she opened the door and entered the lounge.

"Ah!" said a bland voice, and Mr. Purvis rose from his chair. "Miss—"

MURRAY WILL INVESTIGATE VA

Harrisburg, March 23 (AP)—A sweeping investigation of operations of the U. S. Veterans administration was planned Friday by James P. Murray, state commander of the American Legion, in line with a request for an inquiry by the organization's policy committee.

Murray said he will name a special commission next week "to look into the shortcomings" of the agency after asserting "the rehabilitation of veterans is just as important a part of the war as the making of guns and tanks and the veterans administration is falling down on the job miserably."

The policy committee, headed by Paul B. Dague, of Downingtown, approved a resolution calling for an "adequately financed" commission to make the study.

The action came, a Legion spokesman said, after a "spirited discussion" of the situation in the commonwealth in which some members asserted there was "slowness" in handling of veterans' claims, including those for education, on the job training and employment. He added that more than 10,000 claims have piled up.

Murray said the Legion in Pennsylvania several weeks ago adopted a wait-and-see policy in connection with the demand of National Commander John Stelle for a congressional inquiry into VA but "now we have the facts and figures to go to bat and we are going to do it."

"I'll tell Aunt Emma the whole thing," she thought. "How Miles acted and about Mr. Fennel's letter. I'll tell her that if she doesn't let me know at once what happened to Mr. Fennel, she needn't expect me to help her out with any money ever. I've got the upper hand. I must remember that."

Q. What can be done to check corrosion at battery terminals? I have tried putting a little oil on the posts, but this has not been too satisfactory, and a bit messy. Wm. J. J.

A. Some service men favor the idea of putting a small piece of felt, cut to fit from an old hat, over the battery post before attaching the terminal. This felt is then soaked with heavy oil or vaseline. One thing that always helps is to have the parts as clean as possible before attaching them.

Q. Does a modern car have one front-end tie rod or two? I'd like your views in order to settle an argument. Also what is the Pitman arm? K. M.

A. On cars with independently sprung front wheels there are two tie rods. The Pitman arm joins the steering gear shaft with the drag link.

Q. The generator of my car fails to show a charge. I've checked the armature and find it clean. The brushes are new and they are not sticking in their holders. I don't believe there is any trouble with the bearings because the generator makes no noise when operating. T. J. McE.

A. Check for a grounded armature or one that is burned. You may also find that the field coils are defective. Better remove the unit and take it to an electrical man for testing.

Q. In reverse flushing the block of an engine should the air and water nozzle be inserted in the upper hose or in the hose to the pump at the bottom? F. R. A.

A. It wouldn't be reverse flushing if you forced the water around the way it usually goes. Insert the water-air nozzle in the top and let it force sediment and scale out the bottom.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern St., Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped,

Evangelist Will Continue Series

The series of evangelistic meetings being held at the Church of the Brethren here with the Rev. J. Herbert Miller, Hershey, as the evangelist, will continue this evening and throughout next week.

The Rev. Mr. Miller's theme this evening will be "The Christian in an Unchristian World." There will be special music by the male quartet of the Church of the Brethren at Black Rock, Pa.

The evangelist's theme for the 11 a. m. service on Sunday will be "Twice Born Men" and that for the 7:30 p. m., "Jesus Is the Answer." Combined choirs of the church will provide special music for the Sunday evening service.

PEPPER PLEADS FOR FRIENDSHIP WITH RUSSIANS

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) said Friday those who cry "communism" at the sound of a kind word for Russia are blocking the most direct road toward an enduring peace.

The Florida senator told reporters regards as part of "the current term of attack" assertions made by Senator Ball (R-Minn.) in opposing Pepper's suggestion that this country destroy its atom bombs and into a Big Three meeting with the Russians.

Ball said in a Senate speech Thursday that the American communist party is "beating the drums" against an atomic control bill amendment which he described as "a minimum safeguard to national security" but which Pepper had criticized in his recent policy address on Tuesday.

Key To Lasting Peace

"I suspected that would be the first form of attack," Pepper said today. "You can be anti-Russian and get a good American but if you use a kind word to say for Russia you are called a communist."

Asserting that his proposals came from his own heart, Pepper added that he considers it "neither fair nor good judgment" to proceed on the premise that no agreement can be reached with Russia.

"Only by a reconciliation of opinion between the United States, Great Britain and Russia can we obtain lasting peace," he said.

Ball told his colleagues that destruction of this nation's atomic bombs and the plants in which they are made—as suggested by Pepper—would commit the United States to a policy of appeasement because of its resulting impotence.

EXPERIMENT IN SURPLUS SALES

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—A new experiment in surplus property sales — everything from soup to bolts, cash and carry for veterans only—is under way at the Philadelphia Naval Base.

Excess items from Navy supplies are stocked in a store newly opened by the Fourth Naval District for a 30-day test. If the plan is successful, naval officers say, it may be extended to other establishments.

An opening day tour of the store disclosed items on display ranging from galley pots and urns to nuts, bolts, tools, bed linens, silverware, searchlights, galoshes and towels, all turned back as surplus by ships and naval installations.

Two Department of Commerce officials, Harkey Reiter and Charles G. O'Hara, are credited by the navy with initiating the project. They knew of the surplus goods, knew veterans needed them, and found in the Surplus Property Act a clause allowing spot sales of small quantities of goods by property military authority.

Rear Admiral Milo F. Draemel, commandant of the Fourth Naval District, obtained from the navy department permission for the test.

Under the established program, a veteran must apply to the veterans preference section of RFC here, listing the goods he requires. RFC checks a frequently revised list of available material and issues a purchase authorization when items are available.

York Springs

York Springs—The junior class of the local high school presented its annual class production, "The Old Home Town," at the community fire hall during the week, directed by Mrs. H. Steele Stuchell, English instructor at the high school.

Dean Wonders, who was recently discharged from the armed forces, has been on a trip to Indianapolis, Ind.

A group of members and leaders of the local Boy Scout organization were instructed in swimming recently at the Harrisburg YMCA building with Isaac Congleton, this section, acting as instructor.

The local Lions club and Girl Scout committee sponsored a barn dance Friday evening for all teenagers of the community, at the community fire hall. There was no admission charge. Boys were attired in overalls while girls wore wash dresses.

The local Boy Scout Troop conducted a drive today to collect scrap material from townspeople for patriotic uses.

Local Girl Scouts, in charge of Miss Marian Tupper, national headquarters representative, were guests of the East Berlin Girl Scout troop at their recent second anniversary celebration and investiture ceremony.

F. E. Coulson and son, Billy, were recent visitors in Hanover.

A "Get-Together" supper was given Friday evening at the community fire hall by the local Odd Fellows Lodge. Wives and families of lodge members were invited to partake of the supper prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the local fire company.

Members and officials of the local Boy Scout troop were present at Thomasville on Monday evening when a court of honor for the organization took place.

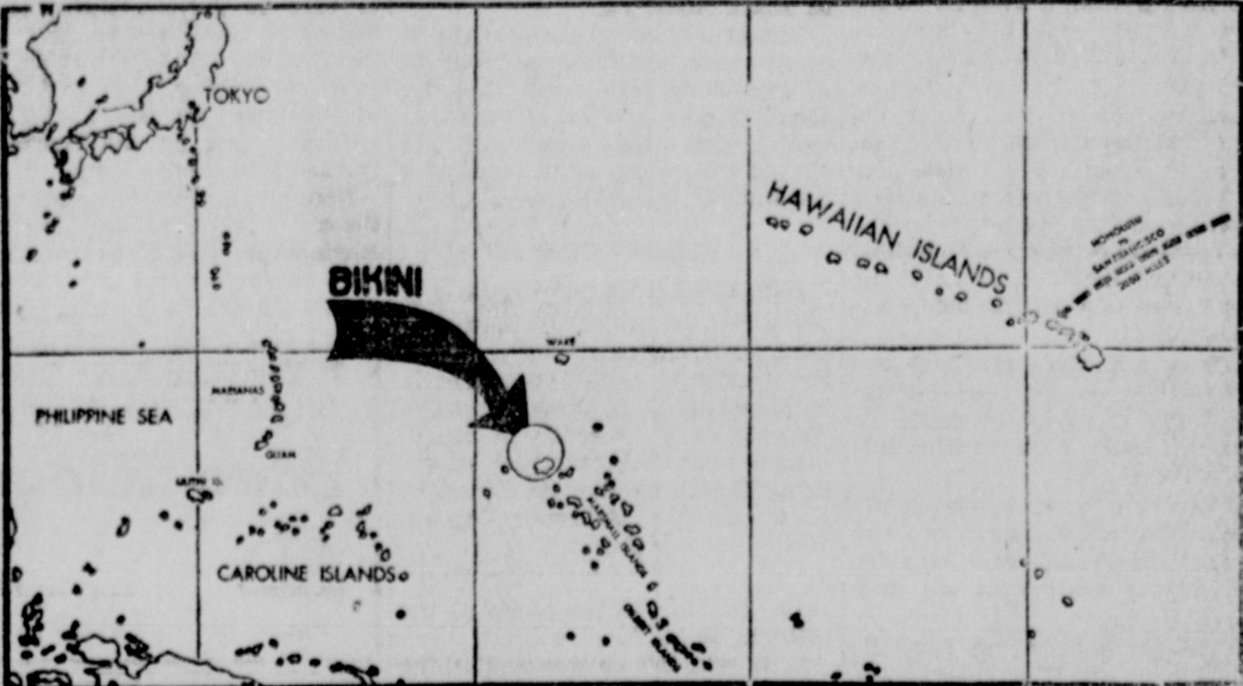

ATOM BOMBS MAY DO WHAT JAP NAVY COULDN'T!

Here are photographs of seven of the 97 target ships scheduled to be tested in Operation "Crossroads," atomic bomb tests first scheduled for May and July and postponed today by President Truman for six weeks. The scene will be Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Island group.

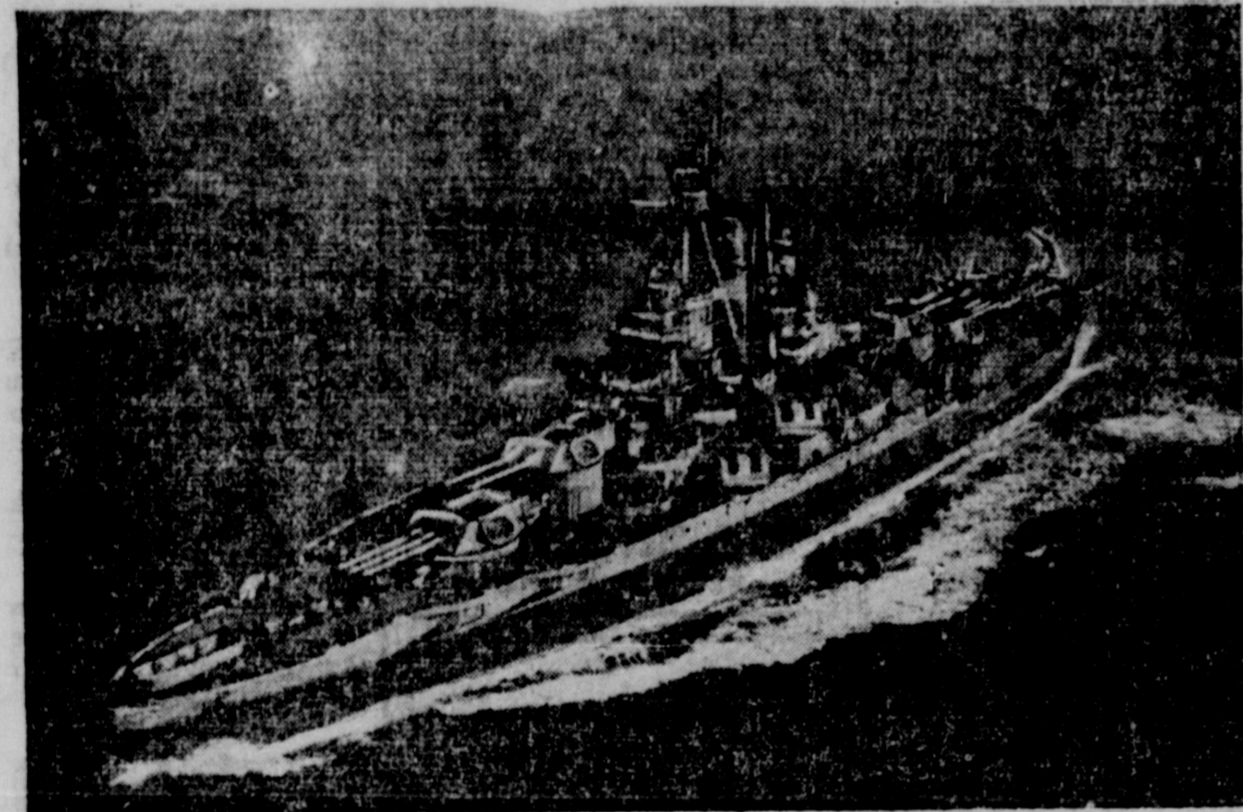

The tests will be conducted by an Army-Navy-civilian group under the Navy's Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy. In the first test an A-bomb will be exploded above the ships, followed by a surface test and later a deep-water explosion.

Total personnel strength for the operation will reach about 37,000, the navy crews of the operating and target ships constituting the majority.

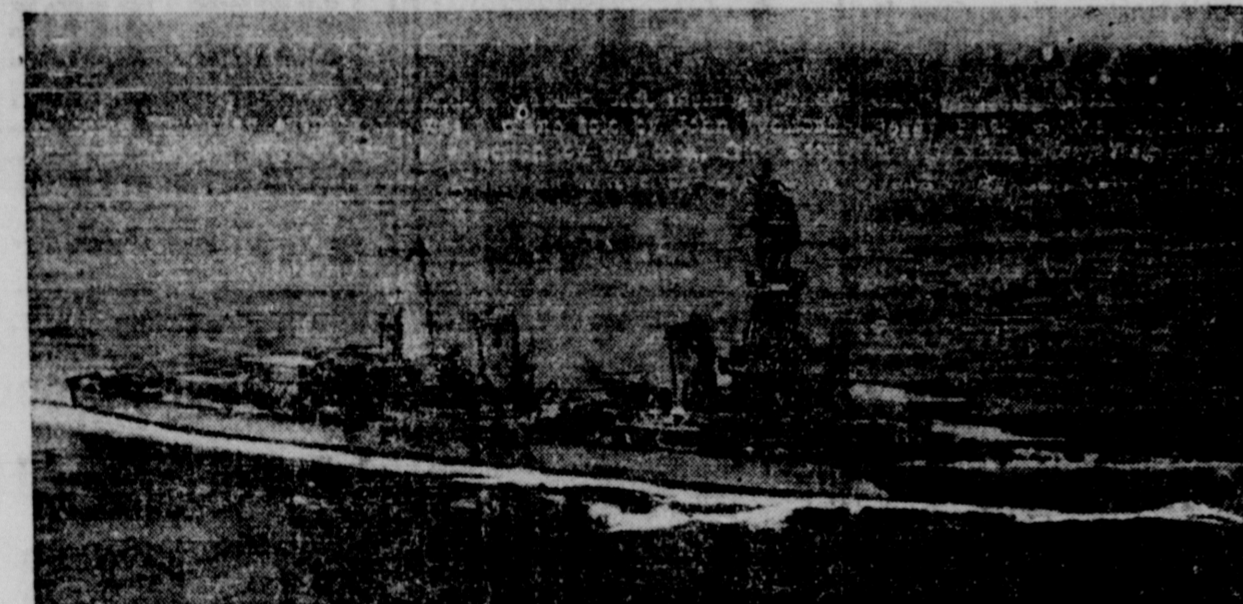

This is the first of a series of group pictures of the ships in the target unit. Represented here are each of the combatant-type ships to be used in the tests.

Bikini Atoll, Central Pacific, is where the tests will be conducted. Bikini is in the perimeter of the Marshall Islands, bitterly contested chain of islands wrested from the Japanese early in the war.

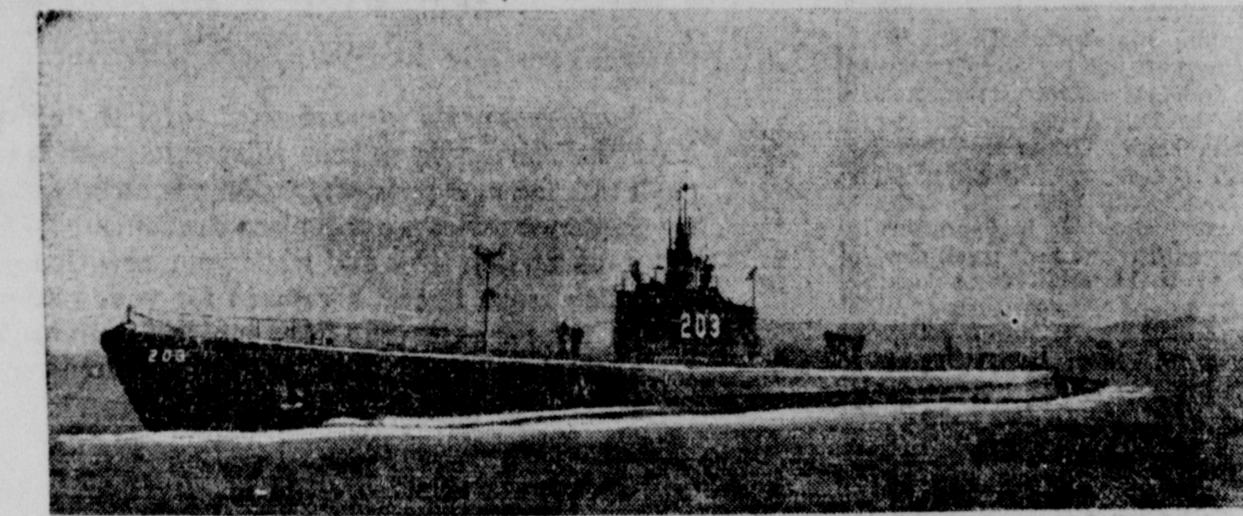

One of the four United States' battleships in the target unit will be the two-war veteran USS Nevada. For the Nevada, this test will be a return to the scene of one of her war-time targets, nearby Jaluit Atoll. During the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, the Nevada was the only capital ship to get underway, and since then she has led her firepower to invasions at Attu, Normandy, Southern France, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa. She performed 52 missions at Normandy and five more at Cherbourg in the invasion of Southern France.

The second of the United States' post-World War One heavy cruisers, the USS Pensacola, commissioned in 1930, was en route to Manila when the Japs struck Pearl Harbor. The cruiser, one of two being subjected to the tests, fought in the Pacific from the Battle of Midway to Okinawa, participating in 12 engagements.

The Pensacola operated with such famed aircraft carriers as the Yorktown, Wasp, and Hornet, and has been torpedoed and shelled without success by the enemy.

Commissioned in January, 1941, the submarine USS Tuna made 13 war patrols. She sank and damaged an estimated 75,000 tons of Japanese shipping and completed three special assignments in 687 days at sea. All but three of her patrols lasted over 50 days, and she is credited with 11 Jap ships sunk and seven damaged.

The entire assemblage concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. The lecture by Mr. and Mrs. Noss dealt with southern homes of the pre-Civil War period in Natchez, Miss.; the Azalea Trail and Bellingrath Gardens, also in that city; old and modern New Orleans scenes and the birds of that area; views of Audubon Park, Tulane University near Media, La. He added the move may lead eventually to a general meeting of Friends of all parts of this section.

The Always Faithful class of the First Lutheran Sunday school attended the Wednesday evening Lenten service at their church this week in a body instead of holding their regular class meeting.

Mrs. W. Hafer Miller was hostess during the past week to a meeting of Class No. 3 of St. Paul's Reformed church.

Hicksite Members Close Old Split

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—Hicksite members of the Society of Friends have approved union with orthodox factions at their 266th annual meeting after 119 years of separation. The orthodox group will consider the proposal next Tuesday.

Parallel action by Friends in New York and Baltimore was predicted by Howard Brinton, director of the Pendle Hill Quaker Study Center near Media, Pa. He added the move may lead eventually to a general meeting of Friends of all parts of this section.

SKF Industries Made Bombsight Bearings

Philadelphia, March 23 (AP)—SKF Industries, Inc., announced today that it began — under secret government orders — the manufacture of special ball bearings for the Norden bombsight in 1929.

S. F. Wollmar, executive vice president of the firm, said the Lansdale (Pa.) plant produced ball bearings for the bombsight so small they could be oiled only with hyperdermic needles.

"These precision bearings had to be made with the utmost secrecy," Wollmar said. "Machine tools had to be designed and workers trained to operate them x x x and only now do all our employees know of this part of our war production begun 17 years ago."

SKF said its war contracts for ball and roller bearings will end April 1.

It is estimated that paper does not go into the bearings.

War Trials May Run Into August

Nuernberg, March 23 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. prosecutor, intervened angrily Friday to choke off Hermann Goering's praise of Adolf Hitler with a warning to the International Military Tribunal that the war crimes trial was liable to drag on into August.

The scowling former Reichsmarshal returned to the prisoners' dock at 10:57 a. m., after eight days on the witness stand in his own defense.

Interrupting in a rasping voice when the defendant again attempted to review "my relations with the Fuehrer," Jackson declared: "The subject has been exhausted — this matter of time is grave."

On the basis of scores of witnesses already granted the remaining 20 defendants in the dock, Jackson said it appeared probable the trial would extend into August.

Heroic Chaplain To Be Honored At York

York, Pa., March 23 (AP)—Citizens of York will honor the late Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, who, with three army chaplains of other faiths, gave his life on a sinking ship in the Atlantic three years ago.

A portrait of Goode, a local rabbi prior to his army service, will be unveiled at William Penn Senior high school. The ceremonies will be sponsored by civic, religious, educational and veterans organizations.

Rabbi Goode and his fellow chaplains gave their life jackets to other soldiers when the transport Dorchester was torpedoed.

Principal speaker at the unveiling will be Dr. Daniel Poling of Philadelphia, father of one of the chaplains who died with Rabbi Goode.

Malta, British base in the Mediterranean, has an area of only 95 square miles.

Falconry was carried into England by the Teutonic conquerors.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Fred MacMurray's past is his laugh-loaded present in Columbia's "Pardon My Past," currently starring him with Marguerite Chapman, Akim Tamiroff, Rita Johnson, Harry Davenport and Douglas Dumbrille featured at the Majestic theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Loved by a girl he'd never seen! Pursued by a wife he'd never married! Stalked by a killer he'd never even been introduced to! It's the merriest down-to-earth comedy that ever sent your spirits soaring sky-high. It's the promise of a rare good time.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Ingrid Bergman who co-stars with Bing Crosby in "The Bells of St. Mary's."

Plenty of laughs and a tear or two highlight "The Bells of St. Mary's," Leo McCarey's first production since his all-conquering "Going My Way." Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman are starred in this brilliant comedy-drama, story of which is spun around a parochial school.

Bing is cast as Father O'Malley, pastor of St. Mary's. His modern methods for educating and rearing the young are in humorous contrast to those of the nuns headed by Sister Superior Benedict, played by Ingrid Bergman. But a threat to the very existence of their beloved school finds priest and nuns fighting side by side, different ways, to avert the catastrophe.

Henry Travers, William Gargan, Ruth Donnelly, Joan Carroll, Martha Sleeper and Rhys Williams-head the long supporting cast of this RKO Radio release.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Riggeal and children, Emma Jane and Ivan, of this place; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shuyler, of Biglerville, and Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Riggeal, of Seven Stars.

EGYPT'S 'SHAW' SAYS EACH MAN NEEDS 4 WIVES

Cairo, March 23 (AP)—Lawful El Hakim is the "George Bernard Shaw" of the middle east. He is a pleasant middle-aged man with a small mustache and French mannerisms picked up in Paris, where he was educated.

He even wears a maroon beret instead of the conventional tall red turban. He is perhaps the most disliked man in Egypt—by modern Egyptian women, because of his theory that every man should have four wives.

Modern Moslem women feel they are having a hard enough time getting rid of centuries-old Arab religious restrictions on their sex without Tewfik El Hakim and his campaign for polygamy. And what infuriates them more is that Hakim himself, while advocating four wives for every other man in the world, declines to take even one unto himself. He poses as confirmed "woman hater."

One Wife Like One Tire
"But I think ever man who wants them is entitled to four wives," he says. "It is more comfortable for them and for him."

"Four wives can do so much more for a man than one. He needs one, for example, for companionship; another for cooking; still another to take out and show off in company and a fourth one for romance."

"No one woman can do all these things. An automobile can't march without four wheels and a man with only one wife is like a car with only one tire."

"I can see how it might be possible for a man to get along with as few as two wives—but that is the kind of a man who would start a long journey on a bicycle."

Hakim is one of the highest paid writers between Casablanca and Calcutta. He writes for "Alkhar Elyom," a weekly news magazine circulated throughout the middle east. He and his publisher, Mustapha Amin Youssef, are engaged in a perennial financial debate.

"He gets 50 cents a word and we are glad he doesn't stutter," said Youssef. "He always suspects us of not counting the number of words in his articles correctly, but he is too lazy to do it himself."

"So now he takes his article in to the cable office and pretends he is going to send it to London. After they have counted the words, he tells them he has changed his mind."

East Berlin

East Berlin—Mervin R. Kunkel, son of Mrs. Garcia Bechtel Kunkel, R. 3, who was discharged from the army late in December, has accepted a position in York.

Augustine J. Tierney, who has been seriously ill at his home for the past two weeks, is reported improved.

Miss Beulah Leas is reported able to be about after a recent illness that confined her to her home.

Mrs. Benjamin Renoll, who sold her house on York street to John Altland early in January, moved Thursday to a part of the Samuel Zeigler property on West King street.

An epidemic of German measles has been interfering with attendance in some of the grade schools throughout this district.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Lebo, with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Zell, moved this week to their former home, Perry county, from the former Lebanon Valley college farm, R. 3, which was recently sold to Walter Shellenberger who will take possession in the fall. Mrs. William Byron, Jr., daughter of the Lebo couple, with her husband and daughter, Judy, are remaining at the farmhouse for a time and the Zell's daughters, Joyce and Vonnice, will reside with her until the close in May of Hartman's school where they are pupils.
